RED ROSE "is good COFFEE"

Immigration, Work and Prosperity

Notwithstanding that one of Canada's greatest needs is a larger population, the amazing fact is that whenever immigration shows a substantial increase, and it becomes apparent that the tide of settlement is setting strongly Canada-wards, an outcry is raised in Labor circles and influences are brought to bear to discourage immigration. Nor is organized labor alone in voicing objections and offering opposition. Frequently church bodies, and sometimes national societies, adopt the same attitude.

This opposition to immigration sometimes finds expression in an attempt to induce the Government and other agencies interested in immigration to discontinue, or greatly curtail, their efforts to induce immigration to Canada. At other times it is revealed by a campaign of the most mischievous, misleading and, not infrequently, absolutely false statements regarding Canadian conditions, a most unpatriotic proceeding.

Most of this opposition is the result of ignorance or the acceptance of half-baked theories on the part of those who seek to prevent or restrict immigration. Some people object to anybody being allowed to enter Canada unless they speak the same language, dress in the same fashion, and worship at the same altar as they themselves do. These timid souls are fearful that they may be swamped, and they insist on Canada being regarded as a special preserve for themselves set aside in the world by an all-wise Providence with "No admittance" signs against people from other lands. They refuse to recognize the fact that all the great national groups of today, including the British, are the result of a fusion, an assimilation, of races.

Organized labor, on the other hand, opposes immigration because a majority of Labor Union members entertain the mistaken idea that by maintaining a scarcity of labor, the opportunities for employment of those already in the country are enhanced, and that higher wages will likewise prevail. The economic and industrial history of the world proves otherwise.

A Melbourne, Australia, man writing in the London Daily Mail declares that progress and development in Australia are both being stifled and held back by the excessive cost of labor. One of the crying needs of Australia to bring about permanent prosperity is the carrying out of irrigation schemes on a large scale. The recent drought has once again emphasized the old lesson, and it is known that under the benign skies of Australia simple methods of irrigation like those practised by the peasants of Lombardy would produce astonishing results. But the problem of Australian irrigation is said to be like a hundred other problems there, it is easy to point out what might be done and what should be done, but much more difficult to get it done. The high cost of labor makes it impossible. As a result the farmer and the family struggles along as best they can with rude skill and appliances, but with low efficiency, postponed improvements, and backwardness of agricultural development.

The Labor Unionist looks on immigration as threatening his employment and as a menace to the established standard of wages. He refuses to see that a still greater menace lies in the retarded development of his country, but which development would bring increased employment and good wages for all. He overlooks the fact that immigration, upon a scale which Australia will almost certainly never experience, had little or no effect upon the standard of employment and wages in the United States; rather did it maintain that standard by incessant expansion. The one thing to keep up, or augment, wages in Australia, or in Canada for that matter, would be great area of development. Compared with what it might be, the rate of present development is slow.

The most prosperous period in Canada in the experience of the present generation was during those years following the introduction of an aggressive immigration policy under Clifford Sifton, and when immigrants were pouring into the country. Following the depression of the after-the-war years Canada is once again experiencing better times and an increasing measure of industrial activity and prosperity, with employment plentiful and wages good, and at the same time immigration is heavier than at any time since the outbreak of the war, with an increase of 68 per cent over last year.

And because of this increase immigration, once again the cry is raised to put a stop to it. Canadians as a whole are asked by one section of the population, and for purely selfish and utterly mistaken reasons, to kill the goose that is laying the golden eggs for the Dominion of the present day, while at the same time being productive of a greater development and more prosperous future.

Stamp Out Hazing

No More Hazing to Occur at University of Toronto

The "hazing" of freshmen at the University of Toronto has been definitely stamped out. The penalty of expulsion or suspension awaits any undergraduate who engages in such practice this fall. This action has been taken by "The Capt" as a result of what Sir Robert Falconer, the president of the university, termed, "the disgraceful features" that characterized the initiation held last October in the faculty of medicine and in University College. "The Capt" decree puts the final ban on a practice as old as the university itself. Canadian Press Dispatch.

Would Help Revive Trade

English Manufacturers Hoping Prince Will Wear Straw Hat

Luton, the English town which is now making straw hats for the adornment of hundreds of thousands of heads next summer, wants to see the Prince of Wales wearing one.

It would be enough, thinks Luton, to revive a custom rapidly becoming extinct in England.

According to manufacturers Londoners buy fewer straw hats every year, probably because of the scarcity of hot weather and too much rain.

Luton is still prosperous because of the large foreign trade, but it would, of course, be far more prosperous if Englishmen kept straw among their usual large collection of hats.

Ontario Field Crop Less

The yield of the principal field crops in Ontario this year will show a decrease of 21,166,131 bushels from the 1925 crop, according to a compilation of the averages shown by farmers, as shown in a provincial department of agriculture report. It is revealed in the report, based on conditions on August 31, that the total yield of the principal grains this year will be 138,741,277 bushels. Last year the total yield was 160,207,711 bushels.

Peace River Coal

Millions of Tons Superior to Highest Grade American Coal

There are millions of tons of very high grade bituminous coal in the Peace River district of Alberta, of a quality superior to the highest grade of American coal, according to D. H. McDougall, former general manager of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company and vice-president of the Empire Steel Corporation, who is in Halifax after a visit to the Alberta coal deposits, about which he has prepared a report.

Mr. McDougall said he did not think the development of these coal fields would affect the coal industry in Eastern Canada, as Alberta coal would always find a ready market along the Pacific coast of the United States.

He described the Peace River district deposits as being the "greatest in Canada" and said they were available for mining at the lowest operating costs.

Pain In The Muscles, Stiffness In Joints, Quickly Subdued By Nerviline

Those who have tested out numerous liniments will agree that where something is needed to dislodge a deep-seated, more or less chronic condition there is nothing to compare with Nerviline. It's because Nerviline penetrates so deeply, because it has about five times the strength of the ordinary oil preparation, it has come to be known as King over all Pain. For Rheumatic conditions, muscular and joint stiffness, Nerviline works wonders. A trial proves this. Get a 35 cent bottle from your dealer today.

WHEN YOUNG GIRLS GROW PALE AND THIN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Should be Taken to Enrich the Blood.

When girls grow weak, pale and thin, parents should not neglect these symptoms, to do so means danger. The girl in her teens cannot develop into robust womanhood without an abundant supply of rich, red blood in her veins. It is the lack of this that is the great trouble with nine girls out of ten. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have achieved world-wide fame for their remarkable blood-making properties. In these pills there is vigorous health, with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes for every weak, pale girl. The value of the pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Winnifred Rutty, Barton street west, Hamilton, Ont., who says: "About two years ago my eldest girl got into very bad health. I took her to a doctor who advised having her tonsils removed, saying this was the seat of the trouble. We had them removed, but it did not help her, and she seemed to have absorbed so much poison from the trouble that she did not pick up at all. She could neither eat nor sleep, and what food she did take did not digest. Then she developed a cough that kept her awake at night, and went down in weight to 95 pounds. A neighbor said to me, 'You have tried so many things why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' I got some and before she finished the second box she began to show improvement. She continued the use of the pills for some time and is now in the pink of condition, able to work and play, and eat and sleep with all her old-time vigor. These statements can be verified by neighbors who watched her restored from ill health to perfect health."

If your medicine dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

No Hustlers Need Apply

Travellers in South America Must Take Things Easy

An interesting discovery has been made by firms in the United States that are trying to make business connections with Central and South America. They find that their most useful representatives are not "bought" efficient hustlers of the Blahdy type, but men from Louisiana and Mississippi who take life more quietly and easily. "Go easy," it is declared, "is not worth a damn, on the other side of the Rio Grande, with the so-called 'Easy Southerner' with his leisurely afternoon, and more moderate meals, has no difficulty in adapting himself to the ways of the Latin American and making the social contacts, which in that part of the world are so vital to profitable trade."

A Modern Fox Farm

F. W. Williamson Meeting With Success In Alaska

Operating a de luxe fur farm where the foxes have their dinner dishes washed, their meals prepared in a special kitchen and delivered on a pneumatic-tired cart, and where every pen has running water, is the job undertaken by F. W. Williamson, of Kuslof, Alaska, who has been attending the convention of the American National Fox Breeders in Milwaukee.

Conditions for the raising of foxes are very much better in Alaska than in the States, according to Mr. Williamson. He never has had a case of sickness or delivered a dose of medicine to the foxes on his ranch at Kuslof, while in the States sickness among foxes is common.

There are some fifty fox ranches in the Alaska territory, of which the Williamson ranch is the largest. An investment of $75,000 has been made since the starting of the ranch twelve years ago, and an annual income of $15,000 is realized.

The ranch is the only one of its kind having its own radio station, and correspondence is carried on by radio rather than by letter.

A Matter Of Antagonism

Why More Men Than Women Go to the Polls

Miss Belle Sherwin is quoted as saying that age is no disgrace and that women should not stay away from the polls because of the fear of revealing it. We think Miss Sherwin's purview of the matter superficial. Women do not stay away from the polls on account of their age. They stay away because they can't think of anybody against whom they wish to vote.

Men do much better in that respect. A man's interests being wider and his acquaintance larger, he can nearly always think of somebody or something which he is against. For that reason many more men than women go to the polls, and very likely it will always be that way. —New York Post.

Protecting the Forests

If you go in the woods, don't be a fire fool! In New Brunswick tourists are not allowed in the woods at all in some counties. In all, they are heavily fined if they are found in possession of matches or smoking material. If we reach that pitch in British Columbia it will be our own fault.

Upper Atmosphere Probably Very Hot

But Knowledge of High Altitude is Very Limited, Says Scientist

In an article in the New York Times, W. J. Layton, of the Harvard Observatory, declares that the idea that the upper parts of the atmosphere are very cold; quiet and dull must now be corrected. The latest word of science, he says, tells us that fifty miles high or more the air may be very rare, probably 100,000 times rarer than at sea level; but it is extremely lively and probably very hot. What little air is left there is excited and constantly indulging in electric fireworks.

Until recently people had taken the atmosphere more or less for granted—the air was there for us to breathe, and that was all. Gradually however, as balloons and aeroplanes began to soar, as radio developed and began to make claims upon the air; as, especially during the war, nitrogen was extracted from the air and "fixed" into fertilizer or used in the manufacture of explosives, and as weather forecasting became one of the necessities of daily life, man began to pay more attention to the air in which he lived and which he used for so many purposes.

When it comes to the higher parts of our atmosphere our knowledge is much less, our curiosity far greater. We know that the air is much thinner up there; a ship's mercury barometer would not register more than a thousandth of an inch pressure.

The old theory held that at 70 miles up the air is 10 million times rarer than down here, and also that it is at a temperature of 70 degrees below zero. Lindemann and Dobson have found that under those conditions a meteor would not get hot enough to burn, and thus we should never see a shooting star. The present behaviour of shooting stars can be explained only by accepting the theory that the upper-atmosphere is much denser than has been supposed. In addition it must be much warmer—somewhere between 80 and 90 degrees above zero.

England's New Motor Law

Penalty for Drunken Drivers Has Been Increased

According to a new law that has just been enacted in England, the penalty for being drunk while driving a motor car is four months in prison and a fine of $250. In addition to this the license of the driver is automatically revoked for one year. And when a law is passed in England it is enforced. They do not put as many laws on their statute books as we do but there is no playing with the law when once enacted.

Meet Success on Canadian Farms

Britishers Train in Old Country to Learn Conditions in Canada

So successful on Canadian farms have been young bachelors who, prior to residence in this country were students in agriculture at the Haddesley Salvation Army Schools in Essex, England, that the Army will shortly receive into those institutions their first classes of married men destined for farm lands in the Dominion. The course will be given during six months, and will mean a thorough training in branches of agriculture, particularly adapted to conditions in Canada.

Waging War on Gleaners

Ruth and Naomi of Biblical fame would have a hard time picking an existence from English grain fields since the farmers are doing every thing in their power to stamp out gleaners.

The latest plan is to leave a solitary shock of wheat in the centre of the field because under the law any field, no matter how large, that contains a single shock of grain is considered not reaped and gleaners are barred.

Germany's Newest Card

Aerial Power is Their Aim Says French General

Germany will return to power in the air, Gen. Girod, president of the chamber of deputies army commission, warns in an interview published in Paris, urging France to be on guard against "tremendous preparations for air supremacy now going on in Germany."

"Domestication on the Rhine has removed the rail menace," Gen. Girod said. "But progress and science have aided Germany to raise its head elsewhere and to seek to recover its fortunes in the clouds. Germany is free to construct commercial planes, by recent abrogation of the larger part of the restrictions imposed by the treaty of Versailles, and it is embarked on a great aviation dream. On its air fleet is built its hope of coming victory."

Continuing, the general said: "Germany's will to recover its place is revealed in the fact that it is covering all Europe and soon will cover all continents with airports, commercial lines, and transit stations, invading all nations and the great highways of the world."

Germany's principal engineers, chemists, and aerodynamicists are working free of all control by the inter-allied commission in Copenhagen, Amsterdam, Italy, and Russia, Gen. Girod asserts, mentioning the names of Rohrbach, Fokker, Junker and Fokker.

"We will be surprised suddenly to find the wings of the reich traverse the oceans, touch the poles, and embrace Europe and Asia, for by virtue of its camouflaged budget it allots as much for aeronautics as the whole war budget before 1914," the general asserts.

Put your faith in Geero Wormwood Balm and you won't need to stuff up with a nasty cold or catarrh. At all good druggists—at little cost.

Plan To Electrify Palestine

French Expert Believes Science Will Accomplish Miracles in Holy Land

French and British engineers have completed a project which it is hoped will be put into execution very soon for the electrification of Palestine by causing the waters of the Eastern Mediterranean to flow over a 250 foot ridge bordering the coast, thence through a canal cut out of solid rock, whence the waters would turn themselves down in an almost sheer drop into Lake Tiberias and the Dead Sea, more than one thousand feet under the level of the Mediterranean.

It is estimated that the electric energy capable of being thus developed would be sufficient for Palestine, Syria, Asiatic Turkey and Egypt. The total cost is placed at about $75,000,000. Able scientists have calculated the net energy at 426,000 horse power.

"Palestine is the classic land of miracles," said Edouard Imbeaux, the French expert, chief author of the plan. "I firmly believe modern science will accomplish miracles there in its turn."

M. Imbeaux has been studying every angle of the problem for three years. He has been in communication with the British Government, which has a mandate over Palestine, and believes that the execution of the project is matter of a short time.

"There is really no material obstacle. The work on our preliminary scheme would take about three years. Labor is cheap. The Jews have shown at Tel-Aviv that they are capable of tremendous tasks."

An apparatus for dispersing fog is being developed at the Philadelphia Naval Aircraft Factory, a simple charging screen, a transformer with jettying device, an airplane propeller, and a meter, all mounted on a truck, will electrically 700,000 cubic feet of air a minute and cut a path 2,000 feet wide and 1,000 feet high through a fog.

From School Teacher To Great Eminence

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania studied diligently and qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save up enough money to put him thru medical college. After the Civil War he began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pa., and often rode horse-back thru the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and could easily recognize most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Later, he moved to Buffalo, N.Y., where he launched his favorite remedy, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known blood medicine and tonic. More than fifty million bottles have been sold. If your druggist does not sell the "Discovery," in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Branch Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

Wireless in the Arctic

Wireless Phone Spans a Distance of 1,200 Miles

Twelve hundred miles was the distance spanned in what is believed to have been the first long distance wireless phone conversation carried on from the Arctic Ocean. It was learned upon the arrival in Vancouver of the Hudson's Bay Company's fur trading steamer Baychino with a cargo of furs from the North valued at $250,000.

Last July, when the Baychino was sailing in the Western Arctic, connection was established by her wireless operator, D. Mitchell, with another of the company's vessels, the Bay Rupert, near the northern entrance of Hudson's Bay, and successful conversations were held between officers of the two ships on two successive nights.

A crime wave throughout Russia, that was growing more and more violent, got its first definite shock recently in the death sentence of Zhabachit, a Charkov gangster, convicted of killing a laborer. The central executive committee of the Ukraine promptly approved the sentence, serving notice of a beginning of fight to a finish against hoodlums.—Associated Press Cable.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition for day after day which does give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply a broken down system, as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the body. No matter what may be the cause (they are almost innumerable), its symptoms are much the same: the more pernicious being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weakness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary activities of life. Now what ails is absolutely essential to all such cases is a course of the NEW FRENCH REMEDY, THERAPION No. 3.

It is a remedy of a new kind, one that is not known by any other name combination. Soberly as it is taken in accordance with the directions accompanying it, it will restore the health of the body and the mind.

It is a new system of medicine, one that is not known by any other name combination. Soberly as it is taken in accordance with the directions accompanying it, it will restore the health of the body and the mind.

CORRESPONDENCE

The world is crying out for Peace—
League of Nations is failing in
the effort to solve the problem—
Why?

Europe is feverishly preparing for
war, and war is in the air, and war
will eventually out of the present unrest and chaotic economic conditions
in Europe. The line of future war (as sometimes referred to) begins
with Italy—so certain persons would try to make the world believe! Again
the query—Why? Beginning in the East—Turkey is investing heavily in war materials, out of all proportions
to her poverty and her budget.

During 1925, Turkey bought from Great Britain alone 30,000 new rifles
and 30 million rounds of ammunition.
Since then Turkey has ordered 90
military aeroplanes in Sweden, field equipment for 100,000 men in Germany. Recently a fleet of 20 planes
in squadrons of four, flew over Germany to Turkey.

Greece has placed an order for 100,000 rifles in Spain, in addition to which, Italy has delivered to her, war
materials estimated worth 15 million dollars. Latvia has placed large orders in England including 10,000 howitzer shells, 10,000 gun fuses, machine guns and parts, many thousands of rifles, and millions of rounds of Ammunition.

Finland, Estonia and Lithuania
have placed war orders reflecting no

you found that you were paying a good dividend, that you had made an honorable adjustment of your debts
and were being put on good standing
again, wouldn't tell him to continue?

Another instance like the above occurred in England, when Sir Henry Thornton put their big railway system on a paying basis, and later was called to Canada to do the same thing
for the C.N.R., which he is doing if Canada will allow him. So will Mussolini. If you will translate Italy
into terms of "Italy, Incorporated," Benito Mussolini, General Manager,
you will have exactly that situation.
Mussolini's plan is to fuse the capitalist, the laborer and the inventor into one brotherly whole. There have been no strikes, remember, during his regime. Six years ago Mussolini was an obscure newspaper editor in Milan,
and probably not a hundred people
outside of Italy, and the Italians abroad, had ever heard his name. Mus-solini's own interpretation of government by him as leader of the Italian
nation is, in his own words: "It means a new era in the development
of national industry; it condenses all experiences of capital on one side and labor on the other into one single gigantic machine operating for maximum production and for the good, of
all; it means efficiency and peace
with justice; benefits to workers, employers and the country; it means that everybody must work to share in corn clothes! And with him, he brings the same old unscientific methods that grandmother had to put up with—the same inadequate selections—the same selfish methods and practices.

Hasten the peddler on his way! Relegate him and his tactics to the past
where they belong—in with the rest
of life's discarded and antiquated
customs.

Nipigon Moose Hunting

Canadian moose and deer hunting
seasons are at hand; in Quebec
from the first of September to the end of December and in Northern Ontario, north of the French and
the Mattawa Rivers from October 25th to the 30th of November. The lure of this great sport is irresistible
to hundreds of men in professional
and business walks of life in Canada and the United States, and it has been intimated at the tourist
department of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal that the movement of hunters will be greater this year than ever before. Ozark Ripley,
well-known writer and experienced hunter has put down briefly, but graphically, a few impressions of one of his hunting trips in the Nipi-
gon country. He writes:

"I was unprepared for the scenery
which unfolded itself gradually before me. For years I had visited the Nipigon country and never once felt that I had neglected any of its offerings until I saw things from another perspective. I was at Lake Helen by accident, after following
the route pursued by a big moose
which had for some reason browsed
close to the Mission. Paul, my Ojib-way guide, and I, had followed the trail towards the south, through the abbreviated poplar and birch grown bottom lands and over significant altitudes. Paul declared it was a moose of immense size. The trail was gruelling and time and again I lost the faint trail of the moose.
We followed the trail, again after a pause, over hills. The moose appeared to be in no hurry. Its steps were uniform and desultory. At no time did Paul slacken his pace and
we arrived at the junction of Lake
Helen and Lake Polly. We dropped down a hill to the water's edge. Paul in advance of me. After peering for a moment through a thicket, I discovered a dark brown object of immense proportions in what seemed at first a recumbent position.

"I go in bush and get round her," Paul whispered. "If I get round on odd side of bull she scare; she
come straight for you."

With this he disappeared into the thicket as silently as a wraith of smoke in the wind-charged air.

How long I waited I do not know.
My teeth began to chatter. It was a fall morning and cold. The bull moved, scenting danger. Perhaps I acted wrongly but held on his shoulder and snap shot at him.
Again I sighed and pulled the trigger sending another .270 into him.
The bull fell dead with a splash.
"I got him," I exclaimed to Paul
in staccato breath when he appeared.
"I got him."

"Then I beheld rebuke in the red
man's eyes because I hadn't waited longer."

"Yes," Paul declared in gutturals.
"It's easy enough to kill moose here,
but it take a real hunter to kill them
where it's easy to get them out."

doubt, fear of Russia.

Poland, Roumania and Czechoslovakia are credited with buying all sorts of war material in France and Italy, and this despite the economic and financial crisis prevailing.
Soviet Russia is straining herself to provide modern equipment for the red army. A military expert tells us that the Russian army has now 825
military airplanes in commission.
Greece, practically bankrupt, besides
the 100,000 rifles ordered in Spain,
placed orders for torpedoes, tubes and
igniters and several thousand howitzer shells.

Jugo-Slavia recently asked for bids
in England and elsewhere for war material.

Japan has placed large orders for shell cases in Europe.

Chili is a large buyer of war material: 20,000 incendiary bombs, quan-
ties of airplane ammunition.

Peru bought 200 submarine mines
at one time.

America alone, judging from the financial investments in Europe seems to be unaware of the possibility of danger of war.

Why should all the blame, or a greater part of it, fall on Italy. It seems to me that the greater part of the blame should fall on Wall Street.
Benito Mussolini states "I'm servant,
not master of Italy."

Suppose you had a business that was on the verge of bankruptcy, with stockholders and creditors discouraged and threatening, and a young man
came along who proved to be a combination of general manager, efficiency expert and publicity director; you
would probably give him an opportunity and a free hand at reorganizing the company. He in turn would probably take drastic methods to stamp out inefficiency, keep the staff
working overtime and have no use for any red tape that would obstruct his plans. But if at the end of a year,

the wealth of the nation."

Now, I think it is only just and right that the world as a whole should
be initiated into the realm of facts concerning their life, their all. We are told this, we are told that and the other thing, all with a purpose, a purpose which literally means "We won't get anywhere."

All kinds of clubs are springing up,
their so called object being to stop
war. We have been told for generations that we must prepare for war,
if we want peace. We have prepared
and are still preparing for war,
and we are still getting more war
than we want. We have War Departments, galore why not have a PEACE Department instead? Why not a round table where the leaders
can co-operate with each other and
try to solve, instead of making worse,
the position of all humanity?

PROGRESS ELIMINATED HIM!

In grandmother's day the old time
peddler, with his pack slung over his shoulder and a thousand and one odds
and ends in his grip and his pockets
was an inspiration. In sparse settlements where transportation was of a primitive nature and industry had not yet made a stand, one was literally forced to deal with him.

Fortunately, Progress has made him a memory of the past—along
with the stage coach and oil lamp.
To-day, the modern retail establishment with its vast selections of merchandise, its economical management
and its high standard of Real Service
is within the easy reach of all.

Yet, self-seeking interests are again busy within our gates, trying to re-establish the peddler—trying to bring back that which Progress
taught us we're better off without.
He's minus his pack now, but nevertheless, the same old peddler—in mo-

Vancouver.—According to statistics prepared by the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange, the foreign trade export of the port has increased 400 per cent. in the past five years, while the import trade
has increased 51 per cent.

In a recent report from the Canadian Pacific Agent at Shanghai received at Montreal it is stated that the summer in vicinity of Shanghai
has been trying on account of drought. This may have a disastrous effect on the crops. The long and intense heat wave was only recently broken by a typhoon which struck the Coast near Shanghai.

A plan is projected by the Osaka Prefectural Government authorities
in Japan for the promotion of a large exposition in commemoration
of the tenth anniversary of the restoration of world peace. It is expected that the exposition will be opened in Osaka in 1929. The plans for the exposition, which will be carried out at tremendous cost, have been approved by the Prime Minister.

So successful on Canadian farms
have been young bachelors, who,
prior to residence in this country
were students in agriculture at the Hodleigh Salvation Army Schools
in Essex, England, that the Army
will shortly receive into those institutions their first classes of married men destined for farm lands in the Dominion. The course will be given during six months, and will mean a thorough training in branches of agriculture, particularly adapted to conditions in Canada.

Prospects for the establishment of an air route in Japan for mail and passenger service have brightened
with the announcement that the Ministry of Communications have included an appropriation in the budget of the Communications Department for such a service. It is anticipated that there will be enough passengers willing to pay
double the railroad fare for the sake
of speed between Osaka and Tokyo,
the leading cities of Japan.

The Hebridean emigrants who are leaving their lone shellings and misty islands for a new life in Canada have, curiously enough,
hitherto been ignored by the novelist, although the romance of this migration, extending over a hundred years provides a wonderful field for fiction. The extent of this field has now been realized, however, in the new novel "Eyes of a Gypsy,"
by the Canadian writer John Murray Gibbon, who is the well-known author of "Drums Afar,"
etc., and Dean of Publicity of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Action should be taken by the authorities in the Province of Quebec to shorten the open season for hunting deer and moose, according to Ozark Ripley, well known writer
on animal and wild life and prominent hunter and angler. Mr. Ripley
also believes that the deer season is too early as in September the deer
are still in their red coats, and their numbers are only conserved through their ability to hide amongst the leaves of the underbrush which have not yet fallen. He believes that a scarcity of this game will result
from the lengthy season.

The Earl of Clarendon, Under
Secretary of State for Dominion
Affairs in the British Government,
who has been touring the Dominion investigating the conditions under which the 3000-family scheme from Great Britain is working out, declared, in an interview at the Canadian Pacific Windsor Street Station
at Montreal recently, that one of the greatest things upon which the success of the scheme depended was
the loyalty and cheerfulness of the mothers of families brought out to Canada to be located on farms. His Lordship paid a special tribute to the type of women brought out
under this scheme whom he had met
during his personal visits among immigrant families.

September is becoming a popular
month for marriages judging by the number of honeymoon couples leaving from Windsor Street Station,
Montreal, recently. On Labor Day
no less than 50 couples boarded the Canadian Pacific trains at this depot. The record established for one day, however, was some years ago
in June when 70 couples left Wind-

The new North Channel below
Quebec will be opened to navigation
on June 1 next and continue during
the high water season, according to a recent announcement of the Marine Department. The new channel extends in a straight line from St.
Jean, Isle of Orleans, to near the north shore. The work has been underway for the past ten years.
The minimum depth of water at high tide will be 35 feet. When all the work is done there will be the same minimum at low tide.

"The Little Red Schoolhouse" will be brought on rails to the children living in the remote areas along the Canadian Pacific in Northern Ontario between Sudbury and Chapleau.
Fully equipped with desks and teachers' accommodations the railway
cars will visit about six points a month. There are about 400 pupils
in these areas of the North who suffer disadvantages from the lack of school accommodation. It is expect-

will be served by travelling schools.

Immigration to Canada in the first six months of 1926 amounted to 70,- 263, compared with 43,241 in the same period a year ago, an increase of 62 per cent., according to a statement issued by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. In the period under review British im-

27,849; immigration from the United States increased from 8,036 to 10,037

from 14,753 to 32,367. Immigration for the month of June amounted to 12,191, an increase of 50% over June a year ago.

REPORT OF THE LACOMBE CONSTITUENCY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE CONFERENCE

Despite the fact that the W.I. Conference had been postponed once, and the roads were awful, the sun shone on the thirty brave women who attended the meeting in the Salvation Army Hall in Lacombe on Monday September 27th. Promptly on time, with the Constituency Convenor, Mrs. Yarwood of Alix, in the chair and our much esteemed District Director, Mrs. H. J. Montgomery of Wetaskiwin, in charge of the meeting. The meeting opened by the singing of O Canada and repeating the "club women's creed," after which the minutes of the 1925 Conference were read and adopted.

The report from the Blackfalds W. I. with a membership of 53 was splendid. Good community work has been done, helping the sick and bereaved, giving small gifts to the new babies, a birthday anniversary for the members quarterly—those having a birthday the preceding quarter are guests of honor, but they have not confined themselves to their own community, they have given generously to the Sunshine Club in Edmonton, Red Cross in Calgary and Wood's Christian Home at Olds. They helped the Ladies Aid and Sunday School in Blackfalds with cash donations at Christmas. At the same time not neglecting their duty to their own organization, but promptly paying Provincial and constituency dues and sending their delegate to the Provincial Convention in Calgary last May.

The Lacombe Local with a membership of 33 have been very busy, securing, and equipping a rest room on Nanton Street, that we are sure will be a blessing to the surrounding country as well as the town. They too remember their members when in trouble. They held a successful community picnic at Gull Lake in July. They wrote to our local member of Parliament in regard to an amendment to the Dower Act and also as to the removal of the beer parlors.

With a membership of 33, Alix has been able to report progress; they have moved into a larger rest room, and bought more equipment, where there is a 15c. afternoon tea served every Saturday by 2 of our members, to which everyone is welcome. At this privilege of changing library books. They have committees appointed quarterly to visit the sick and strangers. For the past two years their September meeting has been devoted to entertaining the Grandmothers of the community to a program at the close of which refreshments were served. They also entertain their husbands at a bridge party some time during the winter. As well as doing their duty to their organization they have donated to the Red Cross at Calgary, and Wood's Christian Home at Olds.

Mirror, who, we are sorry to say, was unable to attend, sent their report and best wishes. Mirror has a membership of 61 and during the year have lost 9 members, each of which was given a farewell party and gift. The new babies of W. I. members receive a baby spoon. Their directors are a sick committee, each director in charge of a number of members. They have been most generous to a community Christmas tree, a neighbor woman who has been unfortunate, Wood's Christian Home at Olds, Beulah Mission and Calgary Red Cross. They have made two beautiful quilts for the Children's Red Cross Hospital. The Mirror W. I. have a very nice building that they have recently painted both inside and outside at a cost of $150.00 where they hold their meetings and keep their library. The report said that some of the members were anxious to have this room open as a rest room for the country women on Saturday, but that a majority of the women were not in favor of it. Those at the Conference were sorry that no one from Mirror was there so that it might have been ascertained what their objections were, as a rest room seems to be such a great need in our town.

The Lockhart W.I. have done wonderful community work, filling socks with candy and peanuts for Christmas treat, having a children's picnic, giving showers to the Bentley Hospital and to brides of the community, they also gave prizes to the four successful Grade 8 pupils.

We are sorry to have had no delegate or report from Leedale or Centre Valley, but hope they may do better next year.

Mrs. S. C. Andrews, the Constituency Secretary-Treasurer, gave her report of the Constituency finances. Three locals have neglected their dues but we hope it was merely an oversight.

The Community Convenor also gave her report.

The reports of standing committees were then taken up. Mrs. McCormack, of Mirror, convenor of household economics, sent her report. Mirror had a dress contest, dresses to cost not more than $12.50, two prizes were awarded. She demonstrated the making of a fireless cooker and served baked beans to 30 people which had been cooked on this fireless cooker.

Mrs. A. W. King of Mirror, Convenor of Child Welfare, was not able to be at the conference but wrote a letter and while she had not much to report, we felt that she had the right idea and she was re-appointed for next year.

Mrs. Newton of Lacombe, Convenor of Legislation, reported meeting in Lacombe and Alix to consider the community property bill and the amendment to the Dower Act.

Mrs. Ball of Blackfalds, Convenor of a standing committee on agriculture, who had come in on the 17th of September, the date on which the Conference was first advertised, was unable to attend, so we missed her report.

Mrs. Shearer, of Lacombe, Convenor of Education, and better schools, gave her report, a portion of which is as follows:—"There is one objective of the Provincial Convenor, that I am not in accord with, and that is stimulating thought and discussion on part of rural people on subject of High School Education for the rural boy or girl. Now I will state my reasons, if your son or daughter chooses to take up the professions that of course will necessitate going through High School, but if it is to get a practical education, one that encourages them to stay on the land and help them to make the best of their lives in a rural community, never think of sending them to High School. I believe that is one of the causes which sends so many of our young people away from the land. In Alberta we have a most wonderful school or college for our young people, in fact we had six of them—but now we only have three, and they are the schools of agriculture. I wish I could take you in a body to witness what I saw in the Olds college. It is simply wonderful what they teach every winter to our young people who have been fortunate enough to go there. Our rural people for some reason do not seem to be posted as to what our young people will get by attending the schools of agriculture. In the first place let me inform you that no tuition is asked as they are as free as our public schools, our boys and girls are under the supervision of the teaching staff at all times. Their recreation is provided and supervised and they are not allowed to go out for entertainment. What do we want education to do for our young people? Make them able to cope with the world as it is today, is it not? Well in our agricultural schools, all the practical things of life are taught, besides they are taught the social graces as well. Girls are taught the proper way of cooking foods, the proper way of serving them and how to act the perfect hostess. They are given certain amounts of money and told to serve meals to so many people for that amount. They are taught economy and efficiency in household administration, how to make their own clothes, how to tell textiles."

We had six schools at one time but three of them had to close for lack of patronage and now one has opened again and do you know who is profiting by it? There are 100 British boys being sent over to help fill up these schools, they will get what our own boys and girls should have, but do not get because the parents do not know what they are passing up. So my message to the delegates is to go home and tell your members about our schools and get them interested enough to at least write to Olds for a catalogue and find out what is being taught there and I am sure that in a few years our own boys and girls will fill these schools."

The following Officers were elected for the coming year:
Constituency Convenor Mrs. C. M. Yarwood of Alix
Constituency Sec. Treas.—Mrs. S. C. Andrews of Alix

Convenor of Household Economics—Mrs. McCormack, Mirror.
Convenor of Child Welfare—Mrs. A. W. King, Mirror.
Convenor of Legislation—Mrs. T. F. Roberts, Lacombe.
Convenor of Education and Better Schools—Mrs. Shearer, Lacombe.
Convenor of Immigration—Mrs. W. L. Pettit, Alix.
Convenor of Canadianism—Mrs. Capron, Blackfalds.
Convenor of Agriculture—Mrs. Ball of Blackfalds.

During the afternoon Mrs. Montgomery delighted the ladies with a vocal solo "Paddle Your Own Canoe" and abrogated a helpful talk on our creed. One woman said it was better to be a woman than to be a man, but the thoughts of the good woman being passed on to the members of an organization that she loved, after which the meeting closed by singing "God Save the King." After the conclusion of the meeting the ladies of Lacombe W. I. served a delicious and dainty luncheon to all present, in the rest room.

Mrs. Pettit's report on immigration, held over till next week.

THE FOURTH COLUMN

(By N. J. Halpin)

During the last Provincial Election Campaign, the Alberta Government Telephone System came in for a lot of discussion. In the platforms of many of the candidates, the telephone rates was the main plank. The Farmer Government was accused of being far too anxious to please the farming community, to the detriment of the telephone system.

The Alberta Telephone system represents an investment of millions of dollars. So far the Telephone rates have been so low, that the department was unable to put any money aside for replacements. All the money that was taken in from subscribers was required to pay running expenses. There was but one way to adjust this state of affairs, and that was by raising the rates. A raise of fifty cents on every phone in Alberta was the amount of the rate decided on, and this extra fifty cents per phone will provide ample funds with which to make all required replacements.

As soon as the government proposed the raise in rates, many farmers in the various districts got together and drew up resolutions against the new rates. Although the raise was very slight, the farming centres decided it was exorbitant, and the government should not have done what they did, and besides that they would just like to know where all the money was going to, etc. Well "all the money" was simply going into running expenses, and as we said before was not nearly sufficient to make replacements.

Alberta people have absolutely nothing to kick about in regard to the telephone rates. For the past years, they have had a rate which was really very low, and the present rate is not high. The rate in Saskatchewan is $48.00 a year, while here in Alberta

$55.00 is the new rate, or a difference of fifteen dollars. Saskatchewan farmers are paying $135 a month more than Alberta farmers.

In the towns, practically every subscriber has two phones, and often as many as four and five. Besides that, the rates in town are higher by at least a dollar and a half, and so far we have not heard of one kick from town subscribers. The service given in the district is just as good as that in town, and the rate is much lower. We believe that the farmers should get together and instead of censuring the government, they should sign resolutions complimenting them on their good business principles.

We believe that the present raise in telephone rates is one of the best if not the best thing the Farmer Government has done.

The money necessary to run the telephone system has to be obtained from one source or another. The expenses of replacement have to be met, and if there is not sufficient money taken in from the subscribers, the money must necessarily be taken out of some other department. Whether the subscriber pays for his service at the end of each month, or whether he pays for it in taxes, amounts to practically the same thing—the amount has to be raised. But the most logical way to raise the necessary sum of money is by a general raise in the rates.

How can anyone expect the government to carry on the telephone system at a loss, which was the case before the present raise. The new rate, in our estimation is only right, and just in view of the circumstances—only the subscriber has to pay for the service, whereas, if the money had to be derived from taxes, non-subscribers would be forced to pay for something they did not receive.

A New Economy Record

IN almost every line of business the Chevrolet Utility Express truck has established a new record of economy in operation and maintenance. Truck owners are amazed at the low upkeep costs of this Chevrolet one-ton truck and the day-in, day-out service under which it stands up so dependably. The smooth Chevrolet engine provides abundant power—even for considerable overloads—on hills and rough roads. A close inspection of the utility express chassis and the records of Chevrolet truck owners will explain to you the performance and economy that have made Chevrolet the world's third largest producer of trucks and commercial cars. Ask your Chevrolet dealer for description and prices of the type of body most suitable for your business. Any regular body style may be built on the Chevrolet utility express chassis. The smooth Chevrolet in Chevrolet history is selling at the lowest price for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada. Ask about GMAC Plan of Deferred Payments.

CHRYSLER "60"

proving itself the most sensational value in the history of the motor industry as the direct result of Chrysler's plan of Quality Standardization.

Within three weeks of the lighter, lower-priced Chrysler "60" introduction, overwhelming demand required a production in excess of 500 cars a day. But even this has now fallen far short of supplying an insistent and enthusiastic public which has singled out the Chrysler "60" as a six of value acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/2 seconds; the economy of 26 miles to the gallon; characteristic Chrysler smartness and beauty; phenomenal riding ease; the safety of Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes; oil-filter; air-cleaner; seven-bearing crankshaft; full pressure lubrication; impulse neutralizer; road levelers front and rear, roomy luxurious bodies and scores of other features which bespeak dependability and long life.

See the Chrysler "60" for yourself; drive it; put it to any test. We know the Chrysler "60" will sell itself to you—that you'll be satisfied with nothing else at its price.

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assembly—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

CHRYSLER "60"—Touring Car, $1485; Roadster, $1550; Club Coupe, $1605; Coach, $1700; Sedan, $1835

Model 330 Stevens latest 1933 double-barrel hammerless shotgun, accurate and durable

Lasting accuracy in this new Stevens

Model 330, just out! And this newest Stevens is fully up to the traditional family standards. You never saw such a finish on a shotgun at anywhere near its price. That frame is case-hardened and polished with a finish that lasts.

Examine the stock—14 inches of selected black walnut, finely checkered. Full pistol grip—solid rubber butt plate. Model 330 sure "looks as good as she shoots." Next, the barrels—made of High-Pressure compressed steel. They have the same lasting accuracy that three generations of sportsmen have found in Stevens barrels—accuracy obtained by the special Stevens method of boring.

But no feature of the new 330 Stevens is more amazing than its price. You can pay more, a lot more, but you can't buy better shooting qualities.

Ask at your dealer's, or write us for complete details.

MRS. GIBBERSON'S GREENHOUSE

I have some nice ferns, and house plants in bloom from 25c. up. Flowers for weddings, and funerals at short notice. Save middlemen's profits and buy plants now for Thanksgiving, that live and grow. They are well worth seeing, and whether you buy or not you are welcome at the greenhouse.

What A Rexall One-Cent Sale Is

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Kleenex Dental Cream is 35 cents. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying one cent more, or 36 cents, you get two tubes. Every item in this sale is high-class standard merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

This sale was developed by the United Drug Company, as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale by permitting us to sell you a full-size package of high-standard merchandise for one cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified because the goods will please you.

NEW WEATHER RECORDS AT EXPERIMENTAL STATION

The weather for August and September 1926 was decidedly the coldest and wettest recorded for these months during the 19 years since the Dominion Experimental Station at Lacombe was established. The only years which were nearly as cold and wet were 1916 and 1925. The harvest of 1925 was considered very wet, but the total precipitation for August and September last year was only 7.24 inches, while in 1916 it was 8.27 inches, and this year 8.88 inches. These other two wet harvests were also much warmer than August and September this year. Recent settlers in Alberta will be relieved to know that by actual record for 19 years the weather is quite unprecedented. While in Sept. 1926, a little over 13 inches of snow fell, only once before in 19 years has there been more snow fall in September at Lacombe. This was on September 20th and 21st, 1923, when 2.5 inches of snow fell. In both 1916 and 1925 the wet weather was followed by a long period of warm weather.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. George Sheets, has opened a general tailoring and dry-cleaning store, in the red building directly opposite the Lacombe Furniture Store. He is prepared to do dry cleaning, pressing, tailoring of all kinds, and absolutely guarantees his work. He will also handle some of the best lines of men's suits, coats, etc. The establishment will be known as "The Clothes Press". He is open for business right now, and anyone having any tailoring, cleaning and pressing to be done, let George know and he will call for it and return it when finished.

LOWALTA NEWS

The Needlecraft met at the home of Mrs. C. B. Zielie on Thursday, Sept. 29 and a fair crowd was present. After business was dispensed with, the time was spent socially until adjournment.

RE TELEPHONE RATES

Edmonton, Sept. 29, 1926.

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge yours of the 25th instant, advising me of your resolution protesting against the increase in Telephone Rates, which has been authorised by the Public Utilities Commission, to take effect on October 1st.

This matter was fully considered by the Government before the application for an increase was made, and now that permission has been received there is no alternative except to put the new rates into effect.

Yours very truly, Vernon W. Smith, Minister of Ry. and Telephones. J. W. Proudfoot, Lacombe.

ELK'S CARNIVAL

(H. E. Kennedy)

The big programme for the Second Annual Elk's Harvest Carnival is now complete and will be turned loose in the curling rink next Monday and a brand new and joyful program of levity will be on the bill boards for every night of the week.

The big autumn show will open its doors at 7.30 on Monday evening with the Elk's Band, under the leadership of Leigh Dunphy, and they will have some new selections direct from the publishers and any person who has heard the Elk's Band at the sacred concerts last winter will find that they have improved one hundred per cent. There will also be a special number of step dancing, wrestling, and other athletic events for each night of the week. It is the biggest show that has been presented to the people of Lacombe district for many moons and the admission is only ten cents, and each admission ticket will have a duplicate number which will be deposited in a hermetically sealed box and some young lady of the district will be blindfolded and the first number she picks out of the box, the holder of the lucky number will receive ten dollars cash. The holder of the second number will receive five dollars. This will be given away every night. Don't forget to get your tickets, and hang onto to your lucky coupons.

Stan Adamson will have 500 ducks in his booth, and Stan reports that they are all grain fed and a delicious flavor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Doherty will serve the Lemonade and Candy and will have all the flavors found in the market. Art Dwan will have lots of good hot corn, garnished with good butter, with sodium chloride to give it real flavor. Roy Whitecotton will have a game that will give you good returns, and his melodious voice is worth the price of admission.

George (Shorty) Frizzell has a new monologue to sell his special red hot dogs and will have the synopsis to add to their flavor.

The net proceeds will be spent right back for benevolent purposes, so that both the urban and rural citizens can enjoy what the money will be spent for in new acquisitions in Lacombe.

The traffic officer will be Cliff Booth and he will show you a real policeman in uniform.

W. C. Sweet will show and demonstrate how you can get some real prizes in his game of lights. This is a twentieth century attraction.

Harry McLeod will have a good crowd of courteous Bills at his booth to give you service at the old army game.

Herb Henderson will have a new game of skill, and exalted ruler Calder says it is a "Wow"

Ted Chapman will have a real booth and will be giving away some of the finest merchandise that has ever been shown in the leading city stores.

Ed Bashaw will have the refreshment booth and Ed. has imported a real chef for this occasion.

T. H. Stout will have an up-to-date booth and will have some beautiful goods to give away, that will beautify your home.

George Aboussafy and Morris Tees will run a Cupid Booth and all prospective brides and grooms look over these booths and get a present for your future life partner.

The little trio of live Bills, Harry Teare, Peter Danner, and Hickey Ritz will furnish seats for their guests, and they have hundreds of presents to give away each night.

This is a review of the real operators of the carnival, but behind these active bills are 150 more, that will be on the job to see that everybody has a good time and don't overlook any part of this week of festivities, as it will be the best and greatest attraction that the big Brother Bills have presented to the people of Central Alberta since they were infant Elks.

There is a lot more to tell about, but come over every night, get the carnival spirit and let us have one real big time together, to make the district bigger, better and happier.

The net proceeds will be spent right back for benevolent purposes, so that both the urban and rural citizens can enjoy what the money will be spent for in new acquisitions in Lacombe.

BENTLEY NEWS

With a week of good weather and the hum of binders and threshing outfits, the Blindman Valley is more like itself.

During the past week there have been many hunters visiting our district, but so far very little game has been shot.

Members, Frank Thorp, Geo. Brown, Eugene Blish and J. G. Blish are away on a motor trip through the mountains.

The W. L. of Lockhart has had all the children of the district vaccinated against diphtheria. Other districts are making arrangements to do the same.

The Hospital Board held its monthly meeting on Monday night. There was a good attendance of members, and considerable business was transacted.

The Board of Trade of Bentley has donated to the hospital easy chairs for convalescents.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Bentley purchased and presented to the hospital, one hospital bed, complete, a tub rack, clothes rack, and clothes basket. The ladies have been saving their collections and now show what they can do.

Mr. J. G. Evernden threshed 54 bushels of barley per acre. A number of farmers report very good yields. Wheat is grading No. 3, 4, and 4 tough.

Britain Buys From Canada

Increase in Exports to United Kingdom as Shown

An increase of $107,554,865 in the value of Canadian domestic goods exported to Great Britain during the twelve months ended July 31, last, as compared with the preceding twelve months' period, is shown in the trade summaries issued through the Dominion bureau of statistics. Exports of Canadian produce to Great Britain during the twelve months that ended at the date reached a total valuation of $512,064,822, while for the corresponding period of 1925 they amounted to $404,509,957.

Imports from the United Kingdom during the twelve months under review were valued at $163,340,513 as against $154,457,625 in the twelve months that ended July 31, 1925.

Radio Stations Protest

Says Canadian Wave Lengths Pre-empted by U. S. Stations

Radio stations in the United States are pre-empting Canadian wave lengths and thereby preventing the opening of more Canadian stations.

This charge was made at a meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters held in New York by A. R. McKean, radio director of the Canadian National Railways.

Nothing Impossible

Sam was an old southern dandy whose amiability would never permit him to acknowledge a thing could not be done, even though he was utterly at a loss as to procedure. He was called by a tenant in the flat where he was junior to examine a leaky pipe. "Now, I could find that leak," he said, scratching a bewildered head, then added in a burst of inspiration, "I could just locate it." Indianapolis News

New Use For Aeroplane

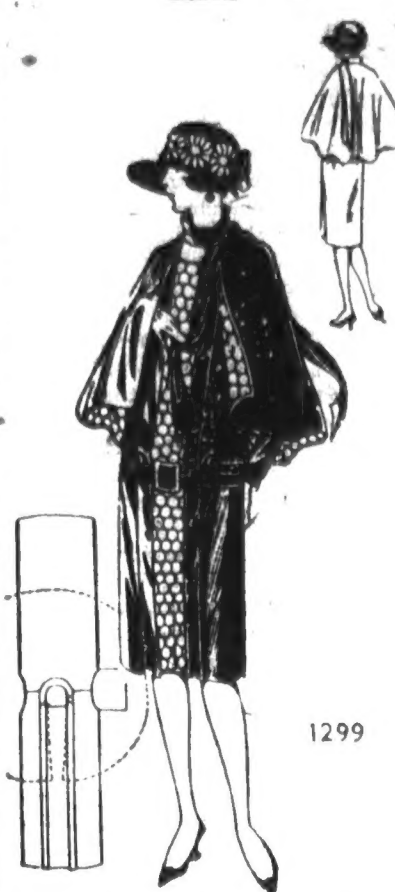

Spraying potato fields from the air against disease has been undertaken for the first time by a British farmer. Mr. George Campbell, of Weston, chartered a private airplane, which flew over the field, spraying from two pipes on either side of the fuselage. The field is of four acres, and the operation, which ordinarily takes two days, was completed in twenty-five minutes.

"IDEAL Fashions" by J. B. Hamilton

The Cape Frock An Established Vogue

The cape has become a part of every phase of the mode, and is nowhere more smart than when used on the street frock, as pictured in this model of navy, trimmed with polka-dotted silk. The cape is separate, not so flattering you will never want to take it off. It has a long tie collar of its own to be tied at the neck, or the ends crossed, one at the back and one at the front. The frock underneath is straight, with a tailored collar ending in long revers, and a set-in panel. The tight sleeves are set-in at the armhole, and a wide belt is crushed into a big buckle. No. 1299 is for the miss and small woman, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3 1/2 yards 54-inch plain material, and 1 1/2 yards 54-inch plain material, and 1 1/2 yards 54-inch figured. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Does Exquisite Work With Chisel As Only Tool

The Kurl Wallah of India is a wonder, according to a Calcutta paper.

An apparently crude, simple, uneducated man, he fashions and produces all kinds of cane furniture with no other implement than a rather broad chisel. He comes to your door with almost every necessity for your drawing room, office or bedroom—from a wastepaper basket and a child's chair to a three-tiered bookshelf and a long-sleeved armchair—all tied on the ends of a six-foot length of bamboo which he carries on his shoulder.

One cannot help marveling at the intricacy of design and exquisite workmanship which that one chisel and those hard coarse fingers effect on the backs and legs of the easy chairs he makes. The kurl wallah's mind is absolutely ignorant of geometry, and yet to give finish to his work he decorates it with generous areas of perfect circles, semi-circles, arcs, pentagons, triangles and concentric circles, and rhythmic mazes of other cane work.

Treasures In King's Library

Many Priceless Books Have Popular Writers For Company

Visitors to Windsor Castle have very little notion of the immense value of the library and collection of pictures and drawings, housed in the royal library, which until lately, when he retired, were under the care of Mon. John Fortescue, the King's librarian.

Of 900 known drawings by Leonardo da Vinci, no fewer than 500 are in the royal collection.

There are in all 18,000 drawings, including the famous Holbein heads and drawings by Paul Sanby.

Early manuscripts, illuminated missals, autographed letters from famous people, are included in the collection, and some illuminated Persian books so precious that they are kept under lock and key even in the already well-guarded rooms of the royal library.

Magnificent books, gold bound, presented to various rulers by eastern potentates and special editions of great works of history and biography stand on shelves—but these treasures do not prevent a certain cosmopolitan note in the royal collection. Here you will find works by Rider Haggard, Ian Hay and other popular writers.

Take Drastic Measures

United States Mail Clerks Get Orders To Shoot To Kill

"Shoot to kill" orders have been issued to 22,500 railway mail clerks as a drastic means of protecting the precious postal treasure from bandits the United States post office department has announced.

If this method of defensive warfare against the underworld proves inadequate, post office department authorities indicated the United States Marines might be called in again to guard the mails, as they did in 1921.

The command not only applies to railway mail clerks, but to all postal employees, and is intended as a warning to bandits who make a business of robbing mail trains. The order instructs all employees to defend mail property even at the expense of their own lives.

The recent Chicago hold-up, when $135,000 in currency was stolen, is said to have inspired the order. Postmaster-General New issued the command after a sudden conference with postal experts.

German Anti-Republicans Glad To Have Former Crown Prince

A Little Miss and a Big Man

Though her proximity to a life belt might seem to indicate certain fears of the broad bosom of the Atlantic on the part of Miss Mary Ferguson Lawson, aged 5, of Winnipeg, you would be wrong in supposing it, since the young lady has merely taken up this position for purposes of photography.

Like many more experienced travelers, Miss Lawson chose the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland, with which, of course, are included her commander, R. G. Latta, and her purser, J. Walker Bartlett (the tall man)—as the most satisfactory means of trans-Atlantic locomotion for a young and unaccompanied voyager. For all three, the ship the skipper and the purser, have seen most of the great ports of the world, as well as many of its out-of-the-way corners on numerous cruises, and have traversed the Atlantic many a time.

Mary was born in Winnipeg, but lived with her mother in England. Now her mother is dead and she is going to live with an uncle, R. W. Ferguson, at Woodstock, Ont.

Every Germ Carries Its Antidote

Astonishing Results From Research Work By English Doctors

Fascinating in the extreme has been the research work carried out over a period of two years by Sir Thomas Horder and Dr. Ferry. The results of that work are only now available and are of far-reaching importance.

Briefly, what these physicians have discovered is that every germ carries in itself not only the disease-producing poison, but also the antidote which cures the disease produced by the poison.

Injected into the patient, this antidote will stimulate the cells of the body to fight and kill certain diseases, such as pneumonia and septicaemia—which hitherto have been believed incurable by such methods. That is, perhaps, the crudest way of putting it, but it means that Sir Thomas and Dr. Ferry have found how to separate from the germ and inject into the patient more of the substance which is already in the body in small quantities fighting the disease.

When the patient is dangerously ill, it means that the anti-germ substance is not present in sufficient quantities to kill the poison. Give the patient more of the anti-germ substance, says the physicians, and the poison germs will be wiped out.

Honey Industry Growing

Considerable progress has been made in bee culture in the western provinces during recent years. One beekeeper in Alberta produced more honey during 1925 than was produced by the entire province in 1924. In Manitoba the honey crop trebled in three years, and in Saskatchewan the reported crop of 1924 was over sixty-six times as large as that of 1918.

Methods Of Weed Control

Perennial Weeds and Annual Weeds Require Different Treatment

Weed control is a problem that must be carefully worked out by the farmer and most carefully put into practice. It is found by the field crops branch of the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, that in going through certain communities a farmer here and there has a comparatively clean farm, good buildings, and is making profits and building a permanent home whereas neighbors have shacks, weedy land and mortgaged farms.

There is no other answer to this question than that the good farmer is making a study of his farm as the architect studies his building. This man does not rush into the field with his four horses and harrow without thinking first if he should harrow or cultivate or plough—as a matter of fact it might be better not to work at all that morning but wait perhaps a week. There is no use trying to keep the fallow absolutely black if the farmer is dealing with annuals—the plants must be allowed to come up well before they are torn out so as to destroy the seeds in the soil.

To destroy some perennial weeds the farmer keeps his fallow absolutely black, not allowing a single green shoot to appear. Why? Because after careful study of this persistent plant pest it has been found difficult to kill it without making searching study of its habits and tackling it in a vital spot. The roots of plants are feeders, gathering plant food from the soil to propagate life and growth. The leaves are the digestive organs that are necessary to convert the gathered plant food into material for making the cells and tissues. The farmer kills the weed by preventing leaf growth and so actually starving the root system over a sufficient length of time to destroy life.

A rather different situation presents itself with annual weeds, and more of our noxious weeds are annuals than biennials or perennials. For example, wild oats and wild mustard are typical annuals of a rather different type, but each one grows from a seed, produces a plant capable of producing a multitude of seeds and then dies. Should the plant fail to produce any seed it dies without reproducing itself. Unfortunately a bad weed has the habit of producing many seeds almost every time. A tumbling mustard plant, if a healthy one, will produce nearly a million seeds. Their power of multiplication is enormous and in order to control annual weeds it is essential that the plant be not allowed to produce seed.

Mustard seeds and many annual seeds will remain dormant in the soil for many years, and if the conditions become favorable will grow and multiply. The first object in the control of annual weeds is to get the seed to start growing and then destroy the young growing plant before it comes into flower or at flowering time, making sure that the flowers will not mature seed.—Family Herald.

Too Many Books Turned Out

Public Select Them Less Carefully Says Gilbert Parker

Before sailing for England on the Leviathan, Sir Gilbert Parker, the Canadian novelist, said that too many books were written and published both here and in England.

"I think it is dreadful," he continued. "I suppose there are three times as many new books and magazines published today as there were 20 years ago. I think this multiplicity of books and magazines is injurious to thinking. The public are selecting their books less carefully than thirty years ago, and they are assimilating less from what they read. There are too many authors overwriting."

Sir Gilbert asserted that the average new book does not have as large a sale as the average book published thirty years ago, a condition he attributed to automobiles, radio, and the films. He recalled that his book "The Right of Way," published in 1901, had a sale of one million copies in the United States alone.

How Chinamen Quarrel

When Chinese quarrel, they do not resort to fistfights. Instead, they shout at each other or appeal to the bystanders. Each strives to prove that he is right, or attempts by rule and originality in abusive language to make the other "lose face." Once this is accomplished and the crowd begins to laugh, the object of the quarrel has been definitely lost as if he had been flogged by a knock-out blow.

Hungarian Peasants Sell Children

Sale of children by Hungarian peasants is said to be so common due to the terrible plight of the peasants that regular market prices exist. The maximum price of 2-3 is paid for children of from thirteen to fifteen years. The buyers are farmers looking for cheap unprotected labor.

Still Applies To Some

Many a person who is a small eater has feelings being described as having "a bird's appetite." How true this designation is may be gleaned when one learns that many birds eat several times their own weight each day.

Arranged in a straight line the rail ways of the earth would reach to the moon and back 477,636 miles.

A man never grows when he gets the lion's share.

Care of the Tooth-Brush

That we should sterilize our tooth-brushes is the advice communicated to Clinical Medicine (Chicago) by E. J. Hay, of Garrison, New Mexico. The newspapers and magazines, he writes, are all advising people to brush their teeth from one to six times a day. Some advise vigorous brushing even to the point of causing slight hemorrhage; others are silent upon this point. None of the advocates even mention the fact that the brush should be sterilized before use. He goes on:

Toothbrushes are found hanging upon the walls, lying on the tops of dressers or in trunks, kicking around in the soap dish, and almost anywhere except in a sanitary and proper place. In these places the brushes gather dirt, dust and bacteria. A toothbrush should be used morning and night and should be sterilized before using; moreover, it should never be used so vigorously as to cause bleeding of the gums, because the mouth is always swarming with bacteria, always waiting for a favorable point of entry, such as is furnished by lacations in the mouth. Pyorrhea is becoming more frequent, and I believe that many cases are due to the too-vigorous use of a non-sterilized brush. We must be very explicit in telling our patients and the public how to take care of themselves in this regard, going into full details as to how they are to sterilize and use their tooth-brushes. Take nothing for granted, but assure yourself that there is no possibility of your directions being misunderstood.

Manitoba Grown Hemp

Numerous Articles Now Manufactured From Local Products

The different types of cord, running from flax rope made from flax straw, through hempen clothes lines, garden lines, binder twines and smaller cords, as well as roofing felts, oakum and flax felts, are a few of the products which are exhibited.—Free Press.

English Nurse Is Plucky

Nearest Neighbor In Central Africa Five Days' Walk Distant

To the leper colony in Central Africa an attractive young lady has gone from her home at Penn, Staffordshire, taking with her a stock of new "Moorgal" serum, which is believed to effect a cure of the dread disease. She is a medical missionary, whose headquarters are at Zomba, on Lake Nyassa. She is the only nurse in a radius of 60 miles, and her nearest neighbor is five days' walk distant. "Leopards and lions walk around the house at night," she states, "but I am not afraid, because there are skilled hunters to deal with them." Just before she left to visit England eight man-eating lions killed 30 villagers, but they were all eventually trapped.

Holland Made Tulip Popular

Government Had To Stop Boom For Bulb Growing

The tulip, called by the Turks the turban flower, was brought to England from Vienna in the later years of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. If Holland cannot claim it is a native, there is no doubt that the Dutch contributed in large measure to its popularity. During the tulip mania of the 17th century bulbs in Holland were worth their weight in gold, and in 1629, 120 specimens were sold for 90,000 florins. Finally the government had to intervene to stop the boom, for bulb growing was beginning to hamper agriculture.

Terror As a Check

As long as there are persons who hold that a murder trial is a mere battle of wits, instead of a stern process of justice it must be expected that sentences of surprising leniency in proportion to the crime will sometimes be imposed. Not until murder becomes so prevalent that people are thoroughly frightened will they regard gangsters as dangerous public enemies, who must be put where they can do no more harm. This point of terror appears to be rapidly approaching. New York Herald Tribune.

Rations For Elephants

Tame elephants, many of which are beasts of burden in the Orient, eat an enormous quantity of food. A full grown elephant, for instance, will eat on an average a ton and a half of green fodder and not less than 25 pounds of unhusked rice daily. The problem of properly feeding a tame elephant is a big one.

Keep Animals On Roof

A Lima shoe dealer was killed recently when a cow fell through the roof of his house into the dining room. Animals, often, are kept on top of houses in Peru and it frequently happens that a cow passes her whole life on a roof being taken there as a calf and finally brought down as fresh beef.

The Value Of a Farmer

By Chas. W. Peterson

There is no subject which should interest the smaller towns all over Canada than the development of their rural trading areas to the greatest possible extent. A study of the value to Canada of a farmer is illuminating. It is shown that over 163 million dollars have been brought to this country in cash and effects by immigrants. This new wealth has played its important part in the development of the country. Prof. Irving Fisher calculates that the productive value of the average individual to the state is $3,000. The average new-born child has a money value of $95—the value increasing to $4,000 by twenty years and dropping to $2,900 at fifty years of age, according to accepted calculations.

Canadian railways are vitally interested in ascertaining the traffic value of a settler. Some years ago able statisticians obtained as a basis, the percentage of their whole freight traffic derived from agriculture (horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, wheat, oats, barley, flax) coal, and in and out-going passenger revenue, and divided the number of settlers into the figures given. Employing statistics of the Dominion railway commission, the exact percentages of each of the railways were worked out, based on the total grain tonnage for the year between 1st of September, 1915, and the 31st August, 1916. Total for the three prairie provinces alone for the four classes of revenue above referred to was $163,516,518. In 1916 there were 219,105 farmers in those provinces and the division of one total by the other places the settler's value at $746.33. Assuming, therefore, that all traffic should be credited to the settler, that sum is the average amount each farmer put into the revenue of the railroad. $746.33 capitalized at 5 1/2 per cent., being interest government is paying on its Victory Bonds, gives a return of $13,569.63—the value of each average farmer to Canada.

If we capitalize that portion of the national income which is ascribable to human effort it is found to be from six to eight times all property value. The total amount of life insurance in force is only a fraction of this capitalized value. We may, therefore, readily come to the conclusion that Canada's "vital" asset is easily our greatest. If so, it seems to follow that reasonable public expenditure devoted to the task of adding to this asset by intelligently promoting immigration to this country, must be regarded as an excellent national business investment. The immediate beneficiary is the small town.

Chicken Shooting Banned

Order-in-Council Is Passed by Manitoba Government

Prairie chicken throughout Manitoba will enjoy a further lease of immunity from hostile snipers, as result of an order-in-council passed recently by the provincial government. The season has been declared closed in respect of prairie chicken, partridge and any game throughout the province, making the second year in succession this inhibition has been imposed upon shooters, and hopes are voiced in governmental circles that the results will justify the action. The open season for duck shooting will continue until Nov. 30. The quota per gun is 20 a day from Sept. 15 until Oct. 1, and thereafter 40 a day until the open season closes. Free Press.

Had Best of Argument

A story is told concerning Father Bernard Vaughan when he was touring in America. A hostile American at St. Louis said to him one day, "Look at our Mississippi and Hudson Rivers. Why, in comparison with them you Mersey and Severn and Thames are sleep, sleepy streams!" "Oh, said Father Vaughan, "I think yours are just as sleepy as ours." "How do you make that out?" inquired the American. "Well, they are all confined to their beds," replied Father Vaughan.

Cement Production Shows Increase

A statement issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics at Ottawa states that the value of cement products made in Canada during 1925 amounted to $2,920,239, an increase of 61 per cent. over the $1,827,871 produced in the previous year and 34 per cent. over the $1,506,528 reported for 1923.

Plants making cement products such as bricks, building blocks, pipe, artificial stone, etc., represented a capital investment of $2,694,736.

Strange Romantic Love Adventures of the Flapper you know

by H.L. GATES

Copyright 1925 by H.L. GATES

Published by arrangement with First National Pictures, Inc.

When he was satisfied of his observations, which occupied hardly more than a brief hesitation, Lord Teddy moved closer on the cushioned divan—only the knee, which was crossed and pointed his way, halted him. His voice, when he spoke, was little above a murmur.

"Please," he pleaded, "don't let us pretend. It's much nicer not to, really. You do it splendidly but you couldn't be wholly successful. When a woman has had so much experience, old enough, you know, so that a man knows there's nothing new under either the sun or the moon for her, then she has to pretend that she hasn't learned that everything is what it is and not what's in copy books. If she didn't she'd be too formidable, so we know she's serious about it. But when a lovely girl makes believe she doesn't understand everything and everybody we know she's just kidding. Because she thinks she does, anyway. Don't you?"

Joanna regarded him elaborately, frankly imitating his own examination of her a moment before. "Yes," she said, her inscrutable smile playing up on him. "Then you have a way with you—as a teacher. I suppose you've a diploma, or some good references, or things like that." His ready laughter bubbled through his mask of seriousness.

"Only experience, my lovely Joanna," he said, finding her hand among the cushions and taking possession of it with both of his own. "My experience will have to be your guide, and yours my ambition." When he had finished he gave her his hand, and looked in to her own shining eyes with a deep shudder in his. She seemed to be unconcerned about her hand. She even moved her knee, a little, to help him cut down the space between them. She said, then:

"We seem to be making a bargain of some sort. When you happen to think about it, tell me what it is won't you. The best I can get out of it is that you want to be a guide and you've an-ambitions of some kind. I like ambitions tremendously. It's so much fun flattening them out."

"Yes," he admitted. "You'd flatten out almost anybody. I should imagine. You wouldn't be afraid of missing anything. That's why I'd like it awfully." She nodded at him. "I know," she finished for him. "If I'd give you my other hand, too, and let you fill up the rest of the distance between us. Then you could tell me just how pretty you think I am, and how you've always been crazy about hair like mine and you'd like to run your fingers through it, and maybe you'd have something new along that line that I'd never heard before and then you'd end by saying I was just made for somebody to love a lot and you're somebody. Have I forgotten anything?"

"My friends," she called to them. "I'm in a daring mood tonight."

"Not a thing," he declared. "When do we begin?"

This time they laughed together buoyantly. Joanna decided she was going to enjoy this fair haired, chubbily young man whose chief aim in life, according to Yvonne, was consoling neglected wives. He was amazingly handsome, as easily read to her as an open book, and she was convinced utterly harmless. Yvonne's picture of him puzzled her. She concluded he would be easily in his thirties, but already she was becoming accustomed to older men than her "dancing boys" had been. John always had appeared older to her than any of the other chaps she knew, although he wasn't in years. She was astonished, secretly, at her own ability to be interesting to men who must have served many apprenticeships at more dazzling shindies than her's.

She was still disturbed by that ready suggestion of his at their sudden meeting earlier in the afternoon. She reminded him of it again, and declared that she wouldn't be satisfied with him until he had made satisfactory explanation. He was not abashed.

"You were such a surprise," he assured her. "Not at all like the usual girl one sees about in places. I'm fully told up, you know, on girls, most girls. I mean they've lost their enthusiasm. You're enthusiastic. Sort of caught me up sharply with it. And you haven't been spoiled. The girls one meets nowadays seem to be spoiled; that is, too many of them. The kind I know. They're the daughters of the crowd that have chow dogs, you know. Funny, but it has always struck me that when a woman gets a chow dog her daughter goes to the devil. Really doesn't go to the devil you know, but tries to act like she had been to him and found him too old-fashioned to be amusing. Now you're different. As soon as I saw you I was sure there were no chows in your family. Are there?"

"Not having any family, there aren't any," she said, quietly.

"Right! There's a reference for you. You see I'm always right about women. You're a flapper without a chow background. There's a heap of difference. If I were a literary chap now, I'd put that in a book, or something. As it is you'll have to figure it out yourself. It's deeper than I usually go. I thought you must be something different, and I couldn't think of anything but singing girls and dancing girls. As a rule they've got sense, anyway. The debutantes that imitate them haven't—the same rule. Now am I forgiven?"

"I never forgive a man anything," she declared promptly. "It always makes him dangerous."

"That's your difference," he discovered eagerly. "The kind of girl I don't like, the kind that isn't near so daring as you are, is the one who's always trying to forget. They say it adds to excitement."

Yvonne's voice interrupted. She dropped into a chair and surveyed the pair on the divan. "You two seem to be hitting it off quite satisfactorily," she commented. "No entangling confidences, I hope." Of Joanna, she asked: "He's relieved himself of his own admirations for his pun at Doris and Pen, I suppose?"

"We'd just started on them when we cut all preliminaries and got down to ourselves," Teddy informed her ingenuously. "We've made progress. I shall be here tomorrow promptly at four to continue matters."

"You will not!" Yvonne corrected him. "Miss Manners—by the way have you made it 'Joanna' yet? I see that you have!—Well then, Joanna has a day mapped out. There's some important things to attend to. And you can run along now. Teddy if you will, you may fix yourself a drink on your way out."

When he was gone Yvonne and Joanna took up the 'important' matters of the morrow; the automobile, its chauffeur—"I'll find you one," Yvonne agreed—and a descent upon a famous jewelry house.

"There'll be a crowd here tomorrow night," Yvonne explained. "That's what Teddy was referring to. I'm making it a big crowd in your honor. I'd already planned a night of it, but I've elaborated for you. You'll meet everyone and they'll meet you. I'll have an unmarried senator and two married ones, without their wives; a few exiled Russian princesses, and a smattering of their princesses. You'll like the Russian girls. Some South Americans who will make you think, always, of sapphires or black diamonds, and everybody who's in love with me or wants to be. That'll make a representative party. I'm keen to know how you'll like it—the crowd I mean. Between Brandon and Roddy, to say nothing of Teddy, you'll be well presented. I fancy you'll be properly admired."

Joanna looked up sharply at the mention of Brandon and Kenilworth. She detected a change in Yvonne's tone as she pronounced the names. She wanted to ask her about these two, for she knew Yvonne shared with Brandon, at least, some intrigue concerning her. But she thought better of the impulse. Her thoughts went back to John.

"Have him come to you here, by all means," Yvonne insisted, shrewdly. "I fancy he is a young man who will require handling. If you continue to be concerned about him, shall you—be much concerned about him?"

The suddenness of the challenge caught Joanna off her guard. She dropped her eyes. All at once she was conscious that her lips were quivering, and that she was concerned. It wasn't quite straight in her mind, but she had put away something. Teddy Domister had said for later consideration, and it came back to her, now a little confusedly. "She was enthusiastic. But a flapper without a chow dog background. And you haven't been spoiled."

She wondered why John had not understood as well as Teddy Domister. She decided she'd find out, soon.

"I can't be so much concerned," she said to Yvonne. "That'll go around hunting sad music."

Cheap Coal for Farmers
A new coal mine is being opened about five miles east of Egan, Sask., which will supply coal at a price of from $1.50 to $2. The output will be 100,000 tons of coal per year and the mine will employ about 100 men. It is equipped with all the latest mining equipment and car loaders. About 20 houses have already been erected for employees. The supply of this coal at a low price is a great advantage to the farmers of Saskatchewan and the adjoining province of Manitoba.

Handling Charges for Pool Wheat
According to agreement between Lane Elevator Companies and the Pool, following are the handling charges on "Pool Wheat" at the Lane elevators: "On street wheat Nos. 1, 2 and 3—5 cents per bushel. On all other grades of street wheat 6 cents per bushel. On car lots, special bin and stored to grade these regular handling charges, plus a service charge of ½ cent per bushel."

Carpet Worth Half Million

Took Twenty-four Years to Make and Is 400 Years Old

A magic carpet nearly 400 years old and valued at over $500,000 held an almost reverential little group awestruck at a carpet dealer's premises in Holborn recently.

At first sight it seemed to consist of a jumble of rich colors. Slowly, however, the design became apparent and the eye revelled in the wonderfully rich lines of ruby, emerald green, and amber.

The romantic history of the carpet was unfolded by James F. Ballard, a rich American, whose hobby for twenty years has been the collecting of rare and beautiful carpets.

"This carpet," he said, "was made at Ispahan in 1550, in the reign of Shah Saif. It was presented by the Shah to Peter the Great, who in turn presented it to Leopold I of Russia."

"The carpet then hung for a long time on the wall of the staircase in the palace at Schoenbrunn, near Vienna."

"It was later seized by the state and was recently sold to the Austrian government to Messrs. Cardinal and Harford of London."

"The carpet measures 24 feet by 11 feet. It must have taken at least 20 years' continuous work to make, and is evidently the work of one man. One cannot help thinking, as one looks at it, that he was inspired. His name is unknown."

"The 'Emperor's Carpet' as this is popularly known to the art world, consists of a center panel of conventional flowers and animals, with a ruby-colored ground. This is surrounded by a wide margin of green and yellow ornamental scrolls twining and interlacing, very much in the manner of Irish knot ornamentation."

It is stated to be one of the finest carpets in the world.

Mountain Clock Always Right

Old Scotch Shepherd Can Rely on Faithful Timepiece

The most wonderful "clock" in the world is to be found in Bonnie Scotland in a lonely glen among the hills bordering Loch Lomond. It never goes wrong for it has no works, and it never requires winding. It is the faithful time-piece of an old shepherd, who has been telling the time with amazing accuracy half a century by observing the shadows cast by the sun on the neighboring mountain ridges.

The old man was asked to give the time by his "preliterate" time-piece, raised his crook-handled stick slowly, and pointed to a thin streak of shadow on the hill-side. "Well, when the sun strikes that it's 3 o'clock in the afternoon as near as matters."

He paused and gazed in the direction of the long shadow. "Th' shadow is a quarter the way from yon peak there," he explained, pointing with his stick to a neighboring ridge. "So I should say it's just about 15 minutes past 3 o'clock, as near as matters as near as matters to myself."

The old shepherd was only a few minutes out according to railway time. An incongruous thing in the centuries-old cottage where the shepherd and his wife still tell the time by the sun and a wireless set. The old couple noticed the amazement of a visitor.

"Aye, I got that from a man I once saw awa' up there in yon mountains," said the shepherd. "He was lost, so I brought him along here to my wee cottage, and made him comfortable for the night. He was awfully pleased, and when he went awa' home he sent me this wireless set."

A Strange Custom

How Natives in Tiny Mid-Pacific Island Settle Matrimonial Difficulties
Something easier than divorce has been discovered by disaffected married couples of Washington Island, a tiny spot of land in the Pacific.

Where domestic discord arises there, the wife is loaned to a friend until and until leads to a resumption of the original relation. Word of the strange custom has been brought here by Harry G. Allen, "king" of the island.

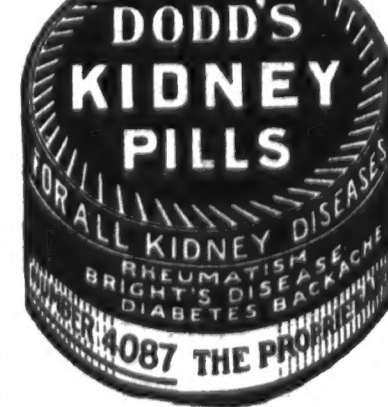

When given married in a vacation to his home in England, he left the only white man on the island in charge of the natives, who work on the plantations of the Fanning Island Company Limited. There are about 75 men and 25 women on the little coral atoll.

British Scientists Cannot All be Classed as Old Fogies

Oxford has discovered that scientists are people, and fox trotting people at that, on occasion. The British Association wound up its recent conference with a ball and Sir Oliver Lodge and many of the other savants danced the Charleston and the fox trot, which showed they were not a step behind the youngsters, who formerly were inclined to regard all scientists as old fogies. Many of the papers read at the annual conference were so popular in nature that the British press gave columns every day to discussions which showed science in Britain has moved into the realm of everyday life.

Palestine Exploration

Reported Discovery of Ruins of First Jewish Settlement Near Jerusalem.

Discovery of the ruins of the first Jewish settlement in Palestine has been made by an archaeological expedition from Berlin university, headed by Prof. Ernest Sellin. He declares that the ruins, which are near Nabulus, 20 miles north of Jerusalem, mark the site of Abraham's altar used by the sacrifice of Isaac, and also the burial place of Jacob.

Western Canada Wheat

"The Wheat of Western Canada is unsurpassed anywhere in the world," writes the "Free Press" editorially, and adds: "In the marketing of Western wheat the outstanding development of recent years, of course, has been the creation of the Pools, the most ambitious undertaking which has resulted from the cooperative movement of the Western farmers."

Completes Flight Across Canada

Seaplane Travels from Montreal to Vancouver Without Mishap

Completing the first seaplane flight ever made across Canada, Squadron Leader A. Earl Godfrey, of the Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters staff, Ottawa, arrived at Vancouver recently. Within nine days of leaving Montreal, the transcontinental trip was concluded after several delays because of bad weather. The 720 miles between Lake Wabumun, 40 miles west of Edmonton, and Vancouver, the distance which carried them over the Rocky Mountains, was covered in seven hours and 20 minutes, a non-stop flight.

"The course we took across Canada," Squadron Leader Godfrey said, "is an ideal seaplane route. Its possibilities for the future are good. With the exception of the Rocky Mountains, it would be possible in the future to fly by night over any portion of the route."

Russian Woman is Captain

Will Soon Command Soviet Transatlantic Steamer

A woman soon is to command a Soviet transatlantic steamer. She is Captain Marie Malagoiny, Russia's first woman sea captain. After graduating with honors from the government naval technical school she served successfully as able seaman, second officer and pilot on Black Sea steamers. Her appointment as a first class captain on an ocean steamer awaits only the approval of the government. She wears the regulation uniform and trousers, having discarded skirts as cumbersome.

A-HAPPY CHILDHOOD A MATTER OF HEALTH

Let Baby's Own Tablets Keep Your Children Well

Little children very quickly get out of sorts. By prompt treatment they can usually be quickly brought back to normal. Most of their troubles arise in the first place from the stomach or bowels; that is why a good cleansing is the first thing prescribed by the doctor. Formerly castor oil was the means used to bring this about; now-a-days Baby's Own Tablets do the same work, but without trouble to the parent or discomfort to the little one. Children take Baby's Own Tablets happily because there is no nasty taste and because no gripping after-pains follow their use.

As a specific for childhood indigestion, vomiting, constipation, colic, colds, teething pains, etc., there is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets. They never do harm and always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Saves $24 A Year

Cooking experts figure that the SMP Enamelled Ware Roaster will save the average Canadian family fully $24.00 a year in meat bills. The secret is, it roasts the meat with very little shrinkage. Also, it makes cheap cuts taste like the best ones.

You place the roast in the roaster, put on the cover; the roaster does the rest. No basting required. Every roast is perfectly cooked.

The cover fits close, so that cooking odors cannot escape. Grease can't splatter out, which means a sweet clean oven. Prices range from $5. to $1.50 each, depending on size and finish—and don't forget the saving of $24.00 yearly.

Former British Parliamentarian and Family Enjoy Visit Here

On their way home from a tour of the West, Hon. J. H. Thomas and Mrs. Thomas expressed their delight in scenic Canada and in the hospitality of Canadians. Hon. Mr. Thomas was the former colonial secretary in the British Labor Government.

Miss Peggy Thomas, in an interview, said that she noticed that Canadian children dress with more uniformity than was the case overseas. "You could plant a Canadian boy in London and you would know him immediately by his clothes." She thought the same distinction might be made with garments of older girls, but not to the same degree.

One of the outstanding features of Canadian homes noticed by the Thomases as a whole was the open, unfenced lawns and gardens. "It denotes Canadian democracy such as nothing else could," said Mrs. Thomas. "It shows a quiet pride in wellkept lawns and gardens and a feeling that good things should be shared."

Painless and perfect in their action, Miller's Worm Powders are always a safe and reliable remedy for children who show symptoms of worms. These symptoms are easily recognizable in a feverish restlessness, frequently ending in convulsions. A point of notable importance is that after Miller's Worm Powders have expelled the worms, the stomach and bowels are toned up into a very healthy condition.

Many Joint Wheat Pools
Since June 11th, 1926, just four thousand farmers have signed up the following acreage in Saskatchewan: Wheat, 535,950 acres; oats, 49,147 acres; barley, 14,460 acres; flax, 17,829 acres; rye, 12,745 acres; making a total of 625,141 acres in three months.

Many have been relieved of corns by Holloway's Corn Remover. It has a power of its own that will be found effective.

DAMAGE NOT SO BAD AS EXPECTED

In conversation with farmers who have started threshing during the past week, it appears that the damage from the recent bad weather is not as bad as at first expected. They report wheat turning out in good shape, as high as 40 bushels per acre being reported, and the grade will be satisfactory. Oats in some localities are frosted slightly, while other parts of the district report little frost damage. Barley has been damaged probably more than other grain, the report being that it is shelling badly in handling. The heavy expense, however, is caused by the month's delay in harvesting, as many farmers had their help hired by the month, and wages have gone on during the time it was unfit to work.

The crop as a whole will be as good, if not better than last year, if good weather continues, and considerably better than harvests of several recent years.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN

One thing encouraging about the recent election is the manner in which the newspapers have received the results. Twenty years ago Liberal newspapers would have filled their columns with boastful gloatings over the distressed. The Conservative newspapers would have been full of fierce bitterness, with terrible charges of wrong doing of the victors.

There is little of either. The papers are analyzing the result very critically and attempting to find the cause. The Liberal newspapers for the most part believe the result has been due to Liberal adopting the principles of Liberalism much more fully. The Conservatives are analyzing the cause of defeat of the party and are making constructive suggestions of improvement.

The Winnipeg Tribune is a very good example of the new paper which is making the most of post mortem. It is a Conservative newspaper which supported the conservative candidate during the election. As a factor in the Canadian parliament, the Manitoba Conservatives have ceased to exist since the Tribune has investigated the cause of the slump in Manitoba and has found that it was due to the management of the parties.

More interesting is the analysis of the Conservative party in Canada. Comparing it to the Conservative party in Britain, it discovers that the Canadian party is lacking in constructive ideas. It has been breaking no new ground, the Tribune finds. It has been "offering no constructive policies, and spending its energy in fruitless criticism of the measures brought forward by its opponents."

"Take for example the control of North Atlantic cargo rates. The control measures proposed by the Liberal government was absurd in the last degree. But the Conservative speeches and tactics succeeded in impressing the minds of the western farmers the idea that the Conservatives were thoroughly satisfied with ocean rates and conditions as they were. The Liberal party was not given credit by the electors for accomplishing anything, but it was given credit for trying. The Conservatives were blamed for blocking tactics and the popular feeling was that the Conservatives would never do anything to remedy the conditions complained of."
